Dear Friends,

The Night Ministry, as you know, works on the ground in Chicago to provide life-saving services to youth and adults facing homelessness. We're proud of our local roots, and remain committed to serving our neighbors most in need. But did you know that The Night Ministry is also influential at the national level?

We're proud to share that The Night Ministry has once again been called upon as a thought leader in the arena of youth homelessness. Our President & CEO, Paul W. Hamann (pictured below), is currently at the White House attending a policy briefing with other national leaders to strategize solutions to prevent and end youth homelessness.

We're also proud that one of our former clients, Georgia, who has transitioned through three of The Night Ministry's housing programs, has been invited to speak at the policy forum. She is accompanied by her four-year-old son and Bridget Thomas, The Night Ministry's Continuing Care Coordinator. Georgia's journey from homelessness to stability is remarkable, and today she is sharing her story at the White House. Your support of The Night Ministry makes success stories like hers possible.

We hope that you're proud to support The Night Ministry, a nationally recognized organization with a vibrant local mission. Thank you for helping us respond to the needs of homeless youth, and develop solutions to prevent youth from experiencing homelessness in the first place. Let's #EndYouthHomelessness.

Sincerely,
The Night Ministry

P.S. Show your support for the homeless youth and adults we serve with a gift to The Night Ministry!
